

Special Pleading a Coincidence in One Act (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By Bernard Duffy

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Special Pleading a Coincidence in One Act The scene is laid in the library of Mr. Culvert s house which is on the outskirts of a London suburb. The room is tastefully furnished. There are two armchairs in the middle of the stage facing the audience and a small closed Sheraton desk against the right hand wall, above which is a large portrait of a lady. A telephone stands on the desk. There is a door on the right and another on the left. Near the right hand one there is an electric-light switch, and at the back there is a large bow-window across which are drawn heavy curtains. As the curtain goes up the stage is in darkness. The right-hand door is opened cautiously and Jim enters carrying a dark lantern. He is followed by Michael who carries a small handbag and an empty sack. Jim is a typical cockney with the ironical manner of his class. Michael is a Western Irishman of variable temperament, dreamy, enthusiastic, hot-tempered and humorous by turns. Both are poorly clad. Jim, flashing...
