Avoid Debatable Statements. - Never assert in any way in your letter that which is debatable or untrue. In other words, never give the prospect a chance to argue, to doubt you, or to say no. You do not know these facts for certain. You can get around the difficulty by adding doubtless or a similar qualifying phrase, which makes your sentence absolutely true. The significance of this principle will probably not become entirely clear, however, until we come later to the underlying psychology of the matter. The same is true, in part, of the five rules following. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
